LOUISVILLE SAWED LUMBER TRADE-SAW MILLS. -We published on the 4th inst. a short account of the pine lumber trade of Louisville. It contained an approximate estimate of the annual business of our lumber men, exclusive of those engaged in sawing timber and manufacturing lumber. We now propose to notice briefly the

There are five concerns who occupy valuable mill property on the river bank, above Brook street, and are engaged largely in sawing joists, scantling, rafters, girders, columns, and building timbers generally. The principal timber used is poplar, though considerable quantities of oak, ash, walnut, cherry, &c., are cut, and the lumber consumed by cabinet, wagon and plow makers, and in the different factories in the city, engaged in making agricultural implements .-The logs are procured in the neighborhood of the river, at points above Louisville, and are floated to the landings opposite the different mills. They thence drawn up to the mills and sawed into such sorts and sizes of lumber as the mill owners require to fill their orders, or supply the everyday wants of their customers. Immense quanti. ties of pine logs are floated here from Pennsylvania and New York, and cut into bridge and steamboat timbers, joists, &c. We believe the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company have constructed a number of the fine bridges on their road with pine timber cut in this city. There is also a considerable trade at points further south ng-timber, and large quantities have heretofore been sent to St. Louis and other places on the Mississippi river. But much the city in the erection of buildings and factories, and the construction of steamboats. With the resent rapid increase in building, there will prob bly be a demand here for timber greatly in excess of the ability of the present mills to supply.

Mr. John Gay's mill is employed a great part of the time in cutting oak and other timber for boat building. It is near the ship yards, and his mill, and the mills of Ferguson & Co., cut more boat timbers than any other mills in the city .--Ferguson & Co., successors of the late Mathew Ferguson, cut a great deal of pine timber, as well as walnut and oak columns, oak and ash for wagon and carriage making, in addition to doing a heavy business in joists, girders, and other building timbers. Jno. P. Young's mills are extensive, and do a large bu siness, chiefly in sawing building ma-White & Cole have the largest mills in the city, and we believe their capacity is as great as any mills in the west. Their business in cutting heavy building and bridge timber. Gregory & Connell's mill is of considerable capacity, and has connected with it machinery for cutting laths, and do a large business in that way

The lumber mills in the city are all built be tween Fulton street and the river, for the purpose of getting logs conveniently. They are all driven by steam power, have excellent machinery, and are managed with as much prudence, energy and capitol, as may be found in any branch of busi-

As far as we have been able to learn the facts in relation to their business, it may be set down at about $200,000 a year, though we think this year it will exceed that sum, as the mills are kept constantly busy, and find sale for lumber as fast as

We have in type an editorial in defense of the Mon. S. S. Nicholas, on the territorial ques, tion, against the assault of the Journal, in which we prove, as clear as mud, that Judge Nicholas is right and the Journal wrong. The Journal's interpretation of the last resolution of the Opposition platform, is an after-thought to prop up its own position, while Nicholas gives the true mesning of that resolution, as understood by the committee that drafted it. We have proved this, we say, as clear as mud, but, of course, our article must give place to more important matter. We can't defend one Oppositionist against another, to the exclusion of news, &c.

We also have an editorial in reply to the Journal upon the Holt and Mallory question. This is also crowded out by news, but it shall appear tomorrow. We would not dare leave this article out another day, for from what we hear of the debate at New Castle, last Monday, we shall not dollars. much longer have the heart to help Holt to thrash

A RUN FOR FREEDOM.-Two slaves of S. K. Richardson, escaped on Sunday into the State of Indiana, en route for Canada. They went out the New Albany and Salem road, and at Mitchell got on the train bound for Cincinnati. They were pursued by policemen R. M. Moore, and Mr. Jas Chambers, who headed them by taking the Jef. fersonville road to Seymour, and thence on the Ohio and Mississippi train West. When they met the train they changed cars, and found the darkies. They were shown every courtesy by the conductors of the Ohio and Mississippi R. R., and at Seymour by the citizens. Some Cincinnati negroes made a demonstration at a rescue, which was quieted by presenting arms. The fugitives were brought safely to Louisville, on Monday evening, over the Jeffersoville road. The negroes crossed on the Portland and New Albany

Buck Tavern, on the Bardstown pike, on Monday. A dozen shots were fired, and Edward Harding received a spent ball in his side. It did no particular harm, however. There was a stampede of the women and children when the row occurred, which was caused by an excess of lager

THE FOURTH OF JULY .- The National Anniver sary was appropriately observed by our citizens. A national salute was fired in the morning, after which the Falls City Guards paraded and left for the picnic up the river. The city seemed quite deserted. Innumerable excursion parties to the ountry realized whether picnics were a real en-oyment or a rural delusion. We are glad to say there was less drunkenness in the city than we have observed for many years, and no disturbance. The Louisville and Frankfort railroad conveyed about three thousand persons, including the Sabbath School children, to the points mentioned in our paper of Monday, where they enjoyed themselves in a way they will long remem-

per. Upwards of a thousand persons from this city visited the New Albany Fair Grounds, where there was a mammoth picnic, at which there were present from 7000 to 10,000. A large number also spent their Fourth near Jeffersonville. The excursions on the Nashville Railroad were not very numerous, but well attended, including fully 1,800 persons altogether. The most intersting and delightful trip of the day was to the south side of Green river, over the splendid iron bridge built in this city. The first train of pas. engers that ever crossed the bridge was the exursion train on the 4th, in charge of the indefatigable Superintendent, Mr. Gamble. The train ensisted of new cars, just built, drawn by the ew locomotive, "Simpson County," with fully 00 passengers on the train. We were of the umber, and went over the magnificent structure t the rate of about twenty miles an hour, amid he enthusiastic shouts of hundreds of people who ad congregated on both sides of the river.

The bridge spands Green river at an elevation f 115 feet from the bed of the river. It is made wholly of iron, supported by five immense stone illows of the most massive and substantial masonry. The length of the bridge is 1,000 feet, and as the train with its human freight passed over, the spectators that lived on the shores were lumb with apprehension, and the intensity their feelings, but when the passage was achieved, they gave vent to their feelings by oud and continued hurrahs. The excursion rain then continued its course, fully a mile and a half south of Green river, the farthest point to which the rails had been laid. After the excursion train passed the bridge, the regular train, with five cars full of passengers, crossed the bridge at a regular rate of speed.

The Pink Varble made two excursions up the iver, the first with the Sabbath School congregations of the Eighth and Twelfth street churches. The first had a picnic in a grove near Six Mile island, and the other at the foot of Twelve

The picnic given by the Falls City Guards was represented by fully eight hundred persons from this city. They assembled in a grove above Utica, starting at 111% o'clock on the Pink Varble, assisted by the Poland. They returned in the evenng without a single accident to mar the festivities

THE ENCAMPMENT AT LAFAYBITE .- The Citi. zen Guards returned from the Military Encampent at Tippecanoe yesterday morning, and the Marion Rifles and National Blues last evening. They came with drums beating and banners flying, and covered with dust and all of glory that ould be won on that field. There were about 000 soldiers from Louisville, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, &c., in the encampment, and from 3000 to 10,000 civilians joined in the celebration. A national salute of one hundred guns was fired at daylight on the Fourth, and also a federal salute of thirty-three guns were fired. Capt. Buckner, of the Citizen Guards, commanded the battalion. The Declaration of Independence was read in English and German-an original ode was delivered by the poet, Fosdick, and an address by the Hon. Thos. Corwin. At night there was a magnificent display of fire works, and the whole celebration was concluded by a grand feschivalry. Our soldier boys express themselves vastly pleased with the hospitality extended to

THE BROOK STREET SHOOTING AFFAIR .- The poice report gives the evidence concerning the shooting affair in Brook street, in which Jerry Quill was killed and his brothers wounded. The account published in the Courier, on Monday, was the correct version The testimony does not clearly indicate the immedate cause of the fight with the police, but it doubtless had its origin in the resistance to arrest made by the Quills. Jefry was cut in the melee, and slightly injured .-The investigation was demanded by the officers, and upon its conclusion they were discharged. The brothers Quill are in a critical condition.

them by the Indianians.

MURDER IN CAIRO .- We learn from our friend Randall, Mail Agent on the Southerner, that Wm. hannon, mate of the City of Memphis, was mur dered by a deck hand named Thos. Clarney, at Cairo, on Friday. They had a difficulty on the boat before they reached Cairo, and Shannon slapped the man in the face. At Cairo, on Graham's wharf boat, Clarney renewed the difficulty, and stabbed Shannon in five different places. The wounded man died in half an hour. Clarney is in jail at Cairo.

The Journal says that while it had a re porter at the Jeffersontown debate, who took copious notes, and the Courier was not represented. it is discourteous for us to charge that the Journal did not fairly represent the speech of Col. Holt. That dodge won't do. The Courier is always represented everywhere. The editors of the Courier can sit in their sanctum and know more about anything that is going on in the world, at any point, than the Journal can learn by any quantity of reporters, with the most copious

We published a paragraph some days ince, stating that a young man, Dixon Lewers, who served his time with Inman, Gault & Co. of this city, was badly scalded by the bursting of the boiler of a portable engine, at Cedar Springs, Allen county, Ky. The young man is not in the employ of Inman, Gault & Co., as might have been inferred from the paragraph, nor did they make the engine or boiler which bursted. They

Paris, June 9, 1859. The tomb of Napoleon is one of the sights of Paris, which a stranger never fails to visit. It tands immediately under the lofty dome of the Church of the Hotel des Invalides, and is more magnificent than the tomb of St. Peter in the sthedral at Rome, the cost of it having been 000,000 francs, or about $1,800,000. Twelve colossal statues, representing as many victories, stand against the pilasters facing the tomb, which consists of an immense monolith of porphyry, weighing 135,000 lbs., and brought from Lake Onega, in Finland, at a cost of 140,000f. Its exquisite polish was effected by a steam engine, built for the purpose, and the value of the stone may be estimated, when it is stated that porphyry is now considered of the same value in weight as pure gold. It covers the sarcophagus, which is also of a single block 12 feet long and 6 in breadth, resting upon two plinths, which stand in breadth, resting upon two plinths, which stand

In the upper portion of the crypt is a recess containing the sword the Emperor wore at Austerlitz, the insignia he used to wear on State occasions, the crown of gold voted by the town of Cherbourg, and the colors taken in different battles. At the farthest end of the recess is the statue of the Emperor in his imperial robes. The marble employed in this monument alone has cost 2,000,000

SOMERSET, KY., June 30, 1859. Editors Louisville Courier: The candidates for Congress in this, the Fourth C. orgressional district, have been addressing the people of this county at the various precincts. Chrisman is sustaining himself ably upon all occasions, and universally drives Anderson, his "garden seed and bug" competitor, to the wall. He makes him writhe, and squirm, and twist, and dodge. Upon all the questions he stands square up—defends the Administration with signal ability, and shows up the inc. nsistencies of his opponent with a skill and ingenuity truly forcible, and in a manner that leaves a decided impression in his favor. At every meeting in this county he has gained most signal triumphs. But at Grundy he wove Anderson's political winding sheet. He raigned him up before the people, and asked him, "If he had been in Congress at the time, would he have voted for the Kansas-Nebraska bill?" Mr. A. did not answer. Mr. C. then said, isn't he a beautiful candiate; his mouth couldn't be opened with a crow-har. Congress in this, the Fourth Congressional disthe Kansas-Nebraska bill?" Mr. A. did not answer. Mr. C. then said, isn't he a beautiful candidate; his mouth couldn't be opened with a crowbar. He then repeated the question, and Mr. A. responded that he would have voted against the passage of the bill. This is a true history of the occurrence just as 't happened. Mr. A. tried, after the speaking was over, to crawfish, but some fifteen gentlemen of the first respectability have given a certificate that he did say he would have voted against the Kansas-Nebraska bill, and he can't shirk now. He stands before the people as an Anti Nebraska candidate. He is, then, neces sarily opposed to the repeal of the Missouri Compromise, and, consequently, in favor of giving all, the Northern territory to the Abolitionists. Isn't he a nice man to be the advocate of a slave In the Northern territory to the Abolitionists. Isn't he a nice man to be the advocate of a slave code?—standing side by side with Seward, Hale Giddings, and opposing the constitutional rights of the South! Can the people of this district endorse such a man? They cannot, and they will not. The burden is entirely too heavy for Billy, and by the first Monday in August it will have borne him completely down.

GRUNDY.

The Paris Gossip of the Liverpool Journal is of course principally occupied with the war. It teems that the Zouares are receiving too much flattery to suit the sober citizens of Paris, and the cossip hints that there is some secret reason for all this exaggerated praise, though the nature of that reason is not given. The town talk was of the expected return of the Emperor to Paris, an event said to be fixed for the 20th. The reasons given for this step are various. Some say it is the necessity of organiz ng the army of the Rhine. Others, who pretend to be better informed, declare that the fear of Garibaldi alone has caused the sudden measure of returning from Milan, un-til Victor Emanuel and the Italian chief shull have arranged their small plans together. Dis-sension is in the camp; Garibaldi is incapable of accepting the name of Louis Napoleon in any ar-rangement to be entered into, even against the Louis Napoleon dreads like death the interference Garibaldi. He knows well that the treatment eccived by the Italian patriot, at the hands of French Republicans, has created eternal hatred and mistrust of all things French. A terrible scene took place at Alessandria between the Em-peror and Garibaldi, wherein the latter spoke out and unbarred his mind. He vowed eternal sus-piction and hatred to France; owned his adherence to the republic—the Red Republic, indeed, and scoffed at the idea of annexation with Sardinia. The hurry with which the trick of annexation was performed, before Garribaldi could arrive at Milan, gives some alarm for the consequences. Garibaldi is open and sincere in his design of protecting the Republic, and eschewing the protectorate of France. Milan will not be able to contain two suns of the same hemisphere. Garibaldi has adopted the irresistable policy of ignoring the very existence of the French army in Italy, and will not fight in concert with the cunning foreigner, whom he avows to be more dangerous than son street, north side, below Fourteenth, will be ven the Austrians themselves. It is wise, therefore, of Louis Napoleon to withdraw for awhile, as the populace of Milan would be sure to show a marked difference between the reception of the Emperor and that of their idol. This is what the wise ones say.

Concerning the victory of Magenta, those who

those who may be truth declare that the French army has uffered so immensely, that another such victory as that of Magenta, and it would be lost. An accident alone saved the Emperor and the whole of his guard from being taken prisoners; and of one egiment it is reported that only sixteen men are

His behavior in the coup d'etat, of which he was bolish and vain glorious enough to boast, had endered him a marked man, and for a long time the had shared in those secret threats, received in nonymous communications, which have tended during the last few months to dispirit the Empe-or's mind, and make him fly to this war with Ausria as a relief from remorse and the Carbonari. It appears that M'Mahon is to be named com-mander-in chief during the Emperor's absence. Another schism in the army is the consequence. Baraguay d'Hilliers and Canrobert are both pass ed over. Baraguay d'Hilliers, already aggrieved at the apparent neglect which had set him aside, had been purposely chosen for the combat at Marignan, in order to give him an opportunity of shi-ning; but here, according to the private letters received on all hands, he committed "betise sur betise," which ended not in the glorious victory (about which, however, to own truth, as little is said as possible), but in a regular drubbing, the Austrians pursuing their way, which the French journals call running from the French, and Bara-guay d'Hilliers returning broken down and out of rits, with an immense loss of men and cannon, esides that of hundreds of prisoners into the bar-ain. The French bulletines are said to be cooked p in Paris, even to be sent for approval to the mperor before they are is ued to the public. A enuine official list of the killed, wounded and isoners was promised, but delayed by the buaux. It is said that the number of prisoners is much greater than the official reports had dared to announce, that this humiliation, the greatest of all to French amour propre, must be avoided at all events, and exchanges to a large extent are being made, in order that the lists may rot prove so formidable when they do appear.

A burlesque aspect of the war is a feminine squabble at St. Cloud. Madame Niel and Madame M'Mahon are at daggers drawn. Madame Niel will not speak to Madame M'Mahon, because Gen eral Niel has not the baton, which M'Mahon graspor at Nei has better out, which a Madane glasp in the confusion. Madame M'Maben will not accept the title of Duchess de Magenta; considers herself lessened by the name coupled with the humiliating designation. What! she the daughter of the Duke de Castries, whose ancestry may be traced for centuries as the favorities of Kings and the coupsellers of Emperors of very different birth. the counsellers of Emperors of very different birth to the one now balancing himself on the throne, to accept a modern, new tangled title de pacotille, such as those bestowed by Napoleon I. on the sol-diers of his army who had risen from the very mud of the gutter? The thing is impossible. She osses her chin in the air, an resolves to remain Madame M' Mahon to the end of her days, rather than be called Duchess de Magenta for one single hour. The situation is so embarrassing for the Court that Madame M'Mahon has been strongly advised to retire to the country for awhile. All

A Milan correspondent writes: I traveled to Milan in company with an Austrian captain, made prisouer at Magenta. He told me that he had had with him three hundred men, with whom he entrenched himself in a large house, which he defended against the attacks of the soldiers of the division La Motterouge, until all his men were either killed or wounded, except a young sublicutenant and a private. Seeing himself thus left nearly alone, he descended into the street, in the hope of being killed. But although the balls whistled about him in every direction, he remained untouched. He sgain entered a house, and continued to fight on until he and the two others were at last made prisoners. He was taken before a general officer, whose name he taken before a general officer, whose name he does not know, but who said to him and the other officer "You have conducted yourselves so brave billier "Lou have conducted yourserves so travely as to merit to keep your swords, and, therefore, I return them to you." And, in fact, the captain wore his sword in the railway carriage. This officer spoke French exceedingly well, and assured me that there was not a single general in France whose services and character were not well known in Germany.

PHYSICAL APPEARANCE OF THE AUSTRIANS.

A Mortara letter says:
"After the stories c reulated in the French papers as to the youth and physical weakness of the Austrians, I was surprised to find them such tall, well built and stout fellows as they are. The proportion of lads was very small; with but few exceptions they were well clothed, mostly in the uniform of the line. There were not more than half a deep troopers among them. Once the alf a dozen troopers among them. One, a Hu-an, was invested with authority, and would be a natch for any French lancer. There were but ew Hungarians, and only two Tyrolese riflemen, o far as I could make out. They all expressed hemselves perfectly satisfied with the food and reatment they had received from the French.— They said they had nothing to complain of ex-ept their loss of liberty, and readily obeyed the orders of a good-natured French non-commissioned officer from Alsace, who spoke to them in German, and was indefatigable in his exertions to make them comfortable. I saw the provisions istributed, and there was certainly no stint. MADAME M'MAHON RECEIVING THE NEWS OF HER

-ITS FUTURE OPERATIONS. General Count Schick, who succeeds Count Gyulai in the command of the Austrian army, is an officer whose name was familiar to Europe ten ears since, when the Hungarian war was raging. years since, when the hungarian war was raging. He played a part of no inconsiderable importance in that contest, and is now not more than sixty years old. If we are to understand that he succeeds in the actual command, instead of Marshal Hess, who had been previously named for it, the Austrian government may be suspected of having imbibed some radical nations on the subject of the age of military commanders. The young Emperor may possibly have made the age of Marshal Hess, who is now 72, an objection to his employment in the active duties of the campaign, and may think his great experience better utilized in planning than in executing the future operations of this war.

That there will be much to plan and much to That there will be micell to plan and much to execute is, we apprehend, tolerably certain.—
Time may be required to repair the morals of the Austrian soldier, and to restore that confidence which the affairs at Montebello, Palestro, Magenta, and Melegnano must have somewhat snaken; but that Austria will retire from Lombardy without some more decisive defeat than she has sustained, cannot be expected or hoped for.— Milan may be hung with flags and lit with lamps, the Scala may exhibit its capacious area, throng-ed with emancipated Italians, joyous in their enthusiasm, the Emperor and the King may re-ceive the felicitations of the Lombards in their spital, without a thought of danger from that vast Austrian army, which a few days ago, occupied avery military post in the country, and the recol lection of which must lie heavy on the memory of ontinuously as the Austrians retire, and steadly as they are followed up by the allies, no one entures to prophesy that this retrograde move ent has no limit, we are all curious to know where that position s which Francis Joseph has designated as his next pattle ground, and to which he has now recalled his troops. It certainly is not on the Sesia or Mella for the country watered by these tributaries is already abandoned, and Brescia, which was in ormer times, contested, is already in the hands f Garibaldi, who seems to act still as the pioneer of the Allied army in their advance. The Austrian is now getting near to his fortresses. He has probably crossed the Chiese, for, if he had intended to defend this river, he would scarcely have allowed Garibaldi to occupy Brescia His next halting place must be upon the banks of the Mincio, where, if he should turn and await his ursuers, he will rest with his right wing upon Peschera and his left upon Manua. Our c respondent seems to hold that this is the positi chosen by the Austrian Generals for their de sive trial of strength. It would undoubtedly ap-pear to be well chosen, for a battle lost by the French upon this ground would be disastrous, whereas the Austrians might reasonably hope to iraw off, if hardly pressed, under the cover their fortresses.

In 1797 the possession of Mantua alone enabled the Austrians to arrest Napoleon for six months before its wall, and gave them time to raise four arge armies, and bring them into the field for its deliverance. In 1848 Charles Albert did not at-tempt to advance beyond this terrible triangle, even after Radetzky had passed through. Disre garding the rash counsels which urged him to pursue his retiring enemy through this military trap, he set himself to work leisurely to reduce the fortresses one by one. While he was beseig-

In that laud of etiquette and that Council of many precedents the authority of former cam-paigns will go for much in the formation of new paigns will go for much in the formation of new plans, and the machinery which has secured a previous success is very likely to be put into motion again with the hope of the same happy result. We expect from Marshal Hess and General Schlick a repetition of the plan of campaign devised and executed by Hess and Radetzky eleven years ago. Military tradition is everything in Austria. Radetzky served under Radetzky. It is almost impossible that these men can fail to recur to those old Fabian tactics which so remarkably succeeded in restoring credit to the Austrian arms in 1849. When Radetzky retreated before the succeeded in restoring credit to the Austrian arms in 1849. When Radetzky retreated, before the army of Charles 'Albert, and through a country in tull insurrection, he fell back at once.

THE EMPEROR AND THE TROOPS.

I saw the Emperor Napoleon on horseback, watching the troops file off before him on their way to Milan. It is needless to say that he was cheered with almost frantic enthusiasm. He said something to every one, and all his observations were happily appropriate. I heard him say to cheered with almost frantic enthusiasm. He said something to every one, and all his observations were happily appropriate. I heard him say to the officer in command of one of the regiments engaged at Buffalora, "I am glad to see you safe and sound, Colonel. I heard you had been wounded." "No, sire, nothing whatever," was the reply, in a tone that seemed to imply regret at not having a wound to show for the engagement. "It was not your fault, Colonel," graciously observed His Majesty, in the hearing of all. The Colonel bowed low to the compliment, and as the moment

The German papers express their astonishment at the omission of the Austrians to tear up the railroad track, and so destroy a military means which here French have so utilized. The Vienna Press, improving the topic, points out the fact that the French soldiers brought up from the reserve at Montebello, approached so near the scene of action in the trains, that they commenced firing from the car windows before they were disembarked.

BRAVERY OF THE AUSTRIANS.

A Milan correspondent writes: I traveled to Milan in company with an Austrian captain, made prisoner at Magenta. He told me that he rtresses by an army landed on the coast north

The French are undisputed masters of the sea, and neither the old Napoleonic campaigns nor those of 1848 and 1849 are adapted to such a contingency. To the Austrian the sea is always an enemy on her flank, and no position is strong which can be turned by Napoleon's fleet of meaof-war and transports. We have in the resources of these belligerents all the elements of a sanguinary battle, perhaps for protracted steges, and even for a long drawn war. It is probably hopeless to think of accommodation walls both the combatants are atrong and feel no exhaustion. the combatants are strong and feel no exhaustion; but we cannot think that, fight as she may, Austria can ultimately win. How many millions of money and leagues of territory, and how much of military reputation, will she waste in protract ing for a short time what, sooner or later, after constant defeats or alternate triumphs and reverses, is at last inevitable? GERMAN HATRED OF LOUIS NAPOLEON. The Poiladelphia Pennsylvanian has a correspondent at Frankfort, on the Maine, who writes very interesting letters. We quote one recently by the Arabia, showing the intense hatred the Germans man, married or not, is pressed into the service this of itself is sufficient reason to bring business of every kind to a stand-still, reason enough to induce these c impulsory soldiers to curse Louis Napoleon as the author and instigator of all these ponderous evils which have been entailed upon them and their families, and to demand to be allowed to make an end of their troubles by marching headlong to Paris, and to inflict a severe punishment upon these frivolous and never quiet Frenchmen, the civilized rowdies called Chasseurs de Vincennes, Zouaves, Turcos, and so on, who dislike to see Europe engaged in the pursuits of peace, the only true means to propagate civilization and liberty. "Let us give them another sound thrashing;" such is the cry of our German soldiers; "take away their new Atulia and send him, not to Elba or St. Helens, but to his own heloved Cavenne, and place the Forest his own beloved Cayenne, and place the French nation, which is so fond of being ruled by force and arms (viet armis,) for a time under the more humane government of a German soldier, who would by and by initiate them again into the quiet arts of peace and freedom."

Indeed, the hatred against Napoleon is intense People here cannot see a solitary good reason for the war in Italy, other than the vaulting ambition of the French Emperor, and his constant fear about a revolution, to guard against which he needs to acquire fresh glory. The other day a poor Prussian "Landwehr' man, who had been called out for service, made his appearance before the Colonel of his regiment, accompanied by his wife and children, and presented the latter as so many reasons for being sent home and allowed to remain there undisturbed. The Colone had no power to dismiss him, the only mode for this, but a very circuitous one, being to petition the Gov-ernment in the matter. The "Landwehr" man then resigned himself to his lot, only acking a furlough for a fortnight. When questioned as to his reasons for desiring it, he said: "I want only to go to Paris and kill the man who precipitates me, my family, and all poor people, into such terrible misery." "Better that we march together," the Colonel thought, but he did not say so, because his chief commander, the Prince of Prusarmy. Meanwhile, our soldiers, our militia "Landwehr" men, give vent to their anger and man bringing the recollection and association of horrible suffering, fighting, and misery for the whole Fataerland.

There are other demonstrations besides these, of the same childish character. But the masses are children in their character and feelings every where; short-sighted, certainly, but honest and sincere. It is Louis Napoleon who has stirred up f hatred, nation against nation, to promote his own selfish objects and grasping ambition. Now the whole civilized world, your own country, per-haps, not excepted, must suffer in consequence of the movements on his part. In many of the cities Germany, the working men have already made emonstrations to show their depressed condition and their vehement hatred against Napoleon and the French. They have forced French manufac-turers and speculators to leave here and there. In Hesse Cassel, they put a French manufacturer to flight, who failed to give employment to three hundred workmen, but who certainly was com-pelled to stop by the present dull times. In Dresden, Munich, and elsewhere, the ladies have formed associations, resolving not to buy or wear a single fancy article (gallanterie waare) of French manufacture, silks, jewelry, (bijouterie) or what

He walked rapidly and firmly as if he had been on a bridge, until he chose to stop to indulge in some gyunastic evolutions for a few monutes. He balanced himself on one leg, sat down, and laid down on the rope at full length, then, recovering himself, he walked to the middle of the river, where he again stopped to accomplish yet another feat not down in the bill.

Here, standing on the rope, with as much indifference as if it was a solid platform, he deliberately lowered a small line to the little steamboat, the "Maid of the Mist," that had steamed the fortresses one by one. While he was beselying Peschiera, Radetzky was awaiting the reinforcements of Count Nugent and the army of reserve, and, about the time that Peschiera could and, making a comprehensive bow to both crowds on the sides of the river, he drank the health of all present; then throwing the bottle into the walked on, stopping no more until he he was exactly nineprecisely the same moves, but no doubt seems to be entertained that the Austrains have not for a moment abandoned the hope of ultimate succes in this war. Reading Matter on Every Page. The Aerial Ship Atlantic

The great balloon "Atlantic," which everybody is now talking and writing about, was made at Troy, New York. It is one hundred and eighty feet in circumference, and two thousand two hundred and fifty yards of oiled silk were consumed in making it. The netting on the outside of the body, to be inflated, required more than six miles of cord. The money to make it was furnished by O. A. Gager, and John La Mountain superintended the making from beginning to

This mammoth air-ship was inflated at St. Louis, Mo., the first day of this month. Fifty thousand cubic feet of hydrogen gas went into it. At a quarter to seven o'clock in the afternoon, the balloon was ready to ascend, and four per sons, Gager, La Mountain, Wise, and Hyde of the St. Louis Republican, took their seats in the boat and basket. The ropes were loosed, and fifty thousand persons saw the Atlantic glide majestically into the air.

At one o'clock the next morning, July 2d, the Atlantic was at Pana, Illinois, about one hundred miles from St. Louis. It had, therefore, only gone this distance during the first six hours -less than seventeen miles per hour.

At half-past seven o'clock it was at Sandusky, Ohio, som e 600 miles on its way. While, therefore, it went less than seventeen miles per hour during the first six hours, it must have gone nearly one hundred miles per hour during the second six hours.

At half-past nine it was at Fairport, Ohio, some twenty miles east of Cleveland, and at half-past eleven it was at Dunville, in Canada West. At a quarter-past twelve o'clock it passed over Niagara Falls, and at half-past 2 in the afternoon of the 2d inst., it landed at Henderson, Jefferson county, New York.

Here, then, we have a successful trip made by a balloon over plains, hills, forests, rivers and lakes, a distance of more than a thousand miles. without a halt or accident, in less than twentyone hours. This is the longest distance ever traveled in an aerial ship. The only balloon that ever went a distance to compare with it was that of Holland, Mason and Green, in 1826. They constructed an aerial ship sixty feet high and fifty feet in diameter, with a capacity of 85,000 cubic feet. It was furnished with provisions for a fortnight, instruments for experimenting, warm ing, &c. They got out from London at hal past one o'clock, on the 7th of November, and crossed the channel near Dover the same evening. They landed at half-past six o'clock the next morning in the Duchy of Nassau, in France, 500 miles from London, having gone this distance in Hydrogen gas was discovered by Cavendish, in England, towards the latter part of the last century. The weight of this gas is about 1-13 that of the air we breathe, and its exceeding lightness suggested the possibility of raising heavy bodies nto the air. Cavallo, the electrician, first tried the experiment in 1782, on a small scale, but with the name of Montgolfier, at Annonay, near Lyons, France, sent up a balloon 110 feet in circumference, filled with heated air. In August of the same year, a large balloon, filled with hydrogen gas, was sent up from Paris, but was held by a rope 100 feet long. During the same month another went up from Paris, without the suspending rope, and landed about five leagues distant .-In September of the same year, the Montgolfiers sent up a balloon from Paris with a car attached, in which was a sheep, a cock and a duck. After this trial with these live animals, M. Pilatre de Rozier went up in a balloon to a hight limited by a rope attached. We believe he was the first man to try the dangerous experiment. Rozier again went up in a Montgolfier, November 21st, 1788, in company with the Marquis d'Arlandes. The balloon in which they ascended was 46 feet in diameter, 70 feet high, and of the capacity of 60,000 cubic feet. It was capable of carrying 1,700 pounds, and ascended 3,000 feet into the air. It traversed a distance of five miles from Paris in about twenty minutes, and landed its passengers unburt.

In December of the same year, a balloon filled with hydrogen gas went up from Paris with two men in it, who were safely landed at Nesle, 25 miles distant. In March, 1784, M. Blanchard went up from Paris in a balloon, to which was attached wings and a rudder, which was the first attempt at steering an aerial ship. In September of the same year, the Duke De Chartres went up with Messrs. Robert and Charles, and traveled 185 miles in 5 hours. And in November of the same year, M. Blanchard and Dr. Jeffries, of Boston, crossed the British channel from Dover, and landed safe in the forest of Guiennes in France. In June, 1785, Mr. Rozier, the first man who ever ascended in a balloon, attempted to cross the channel from France to England, and was killed. The first man, therefore, who ascended in a balloon was the first to lose his life thereby. Since that time balloon ascensions have been too numerous to enumerate, and accidents too have been of frequent occurence.

During the French revolution, balloons were used for reconnoitering the position and movements of the enemy. One was distributed in each division of the Republican army in France The most favorable hight for reconnoitering was 900 feet, though they sometimes went up 2,500. The experiment was soon abandoned, though the French army used them as late as 1830 in Algiers. The first ascent in a balloon, for purely scientific purposes, was August 23d, 1804, by Lussac and Biot, under the auspices of the French Government. Various philosophical instruments were carried up for the purpose of testing the density, temperature, humidity, and electricity of the air at different elevations. Not satisfied with these experiments, Lussac again ascended, September 15th, of the same year. He attained a hight of 22,912 feet above Paris, and filled a flask prepared for the purpose with air. This air was twice as light as that at the surface of the earth, but its analysis showed the same proportions of oxygen and hydrogen. At the greatest hight Lussac reached-four miles and a quarter-the cold was so excessive as to benumb him, breathing was difficult, the pulse quickened, respiration shortened, and the throat parched. Balloon ascensions, however, up to this time have been more for show than anything else .-No possible good can come of them as a reliable means of locomotion, until some machinery is invented which can steer them through the air .-The balloon Atlantic, while crossing Lake Erie. came down near to the water and then went up again, thus showing the capability of the rudder used to steer it in a perpendicular direction. When a rudder or wings are invented which can steer it in a horizontal direction, it will do to talk about traveling in a balloon, but not till then. We don't pretend to say that this will not be done, for stranger things have been accomplished, and

The Hon, Linn Boyd. This gentleman passed through Louisville day efore yesterday, on his way home. He reached the Moses McLellan for Paducah. the latter part of February last. He has been under medical treatment at Philadelphia until the last few weeks, when he went to the mountains of Pennsylvania for a change. His sufferings have been intense from a complication of maladies, either of which would have been as borne. Neuralgia and rheumatism have combined to make his real disease almost intolerable. He has borne the combined attack, however, and deeply traced upon his features, he yet looks better than was to be expected. He is now in a fair way to recover, and though his restoration to health and strength must be slow, his convalescence may be considered as certain as anything of the kind can be. It is not likely that Col. Boyd will be able to take part in the present campaign in Kentucky. His capricious disease has more than once filled him with hopes of taking the stump, but those hopes have again and again been disappointed. We do not think that Col. Boyd's friends ou at to permit him to take the stump even if his health permits. He has done enough for his party in days past, to be permitted to rest now while others fight the battle whose victory he is to enjoy. Let him stay at home and preserve his health for future usefulness. The day is coming, and indeed is now at hand, when his experience, and wisdom, and political integrity are needed in affairs of State. We cannot spare such men, nor risk their future usefulness in the councils of the nation, by permitting him to make speeches, which might endanger his life. The name of Col. Boyd will cheer every Democratic heart in August next, and, therefore, let him stay at home, while the young, the healthy, and the willing, fight for him the great battle and win the victory. The National Intelligencer contains a letto correct an alleged misrepresentation of his views in reference to the acquisitiou of Cuba. Mr. Dodge complains that he has been charged by a correspondent of the Philadelphia American, and also by the editors of the Intelligencer, with asserting that Cuba can never be purchased, and that even the proposition to buy it is an indignity to Spain. In commenting on this letter, the Intelligencer observes:

"It will be seen that to this extent Mr. Dodge designated, as he states in his communication "that the prospect of acquiring Cuba by purchase under present circumtances, is inauspicious." Bu e takes occasion to add that he has never said or intimated that the proposition in any way involved the honor of Spain, or that the purchase might not at some future period be effected. It is out just to Mr. Dodge that any erroneous dedi ns drawn from his statements, with regard to should be corrected, and that his views should be placed before the public in their true light, coming as they do with the weight attachng to his opportunities for personal observation during the period in which he has discharged with so much acceptance the duties of his recent flicial position near the Spanish Court.

Mr. Dodge embraces the opportunity thus presented to express his full concurrence with Mr. Buchanan's Cuba policy, as will be seen by the following extract:

The President in his last annual message red nends that we should endeavor to acquire Cuba y honorable negotiation, adding "we would not, if we could, acquire it in any other way." He arther recommends that he should be entrusted by Congress with the means of making an ad-vance to the Spanish Government on the signa-ture of the treaty and before its ratification. I share and approve, in their fullest extent, these views of the President. I believe that if they are acted upon, we shall sooner or later obtain Cuba by honorable negotiation; and, believing this, I watched with much anxiety, and saw defeated with great regret, Mr. Slidell's bill to appropriate thirty millions for the object referred to. Sooner or later, I say; the time depends mainly on ourselves. If we go on defeating appropriations proposed for this object; if we continue to circu-late just such opinions as you, Mesers. Editors, made, the American Senate would refuse to ratify it, if by a suicidal policy like this, defeat-ing the wishes and efforts of the Administration, we place stumbling blocks in our own way, then all must admit that the prospect, as to time, i

This morning at 8 o'clock the Emperor and King Victor Emmanuel entered the city. The Milanese were frantic with delight; the horses of the sovereigns marched upon roses and laurels; bouquets were showered down upon the Emperor; ladies wared their handkerchiefs, while the shouts were deafening; some of the people threw themselves on their knees before the horses, embracing the feet of the Emperor, who was forced at each moment to stop his horse, fearing to crush some of the frantic and overjoyed citizens, who seemed to have positively lost their senses. "Viva Napoleone, Viva l'Imperatore," was the universal cry. Men, women and children were rushing about, seizing the French soldiers by the hand, and shedding tears in a delirium of joyous agitation.

The Winan's steamer, at Baltimore, within the last few days, has made three experimental trips on the Patapsco and Cheasapeake. Twenty miles an hour was made on Thursday last. This was regarded as satisfactory. In a short time new fronts will be added to the boat, which will not only add considerable to her length, but, it is expected, will increase her speed.

RHEUMATISM .- Vast numbers who have long suffered from this afflicting disease, have been cured, and many others are now being cured by ter from Mr. Dodge, late minister to Spain, written Dr. Mortimore's remedy. It would seem that the Doctor's own long affliction with this disease, led to a most valuable discovery in this remedy, with which he not only cured himself, but has cured many thousands of others, many of whom had long been helpless cripples. Dr. Mortimore's office is on Third street, this city, to which many resort for relief, not only our own citizens, but from abroad, some from a long distance, while he treats many at a distance by correspondence.

We learn that our young friend A. C. Seator confirms the accuracy of the inference which we sustained by quotations from the correspondence man in the popular and extensive clothing house of J. M. Armstrong, Main street, has taken an agency and opened a house in Indianapolis, for the sale of this valuable remedy. We predict for him a large business, in time, in that growing city, and his mission a blessing to those who are afflicted, and he bears with him the best wishes of many warm friends, for abundant success.

A NEW SKIRT THAT HAS NO EQUAL .- J. M. Robnson & Co. have just introduced a new article, the Woven Extension Skeleton Skirt, with adjustable watch spring bustle-made without a stich or clasp of any kind. They will be found to obviate the great objections to metalic-fastened, or sewed skirts, which are continually cutting the tapes or ripping, the hoops, by this new method, being woven in where the tapes are made. They will, no doubt, soon supercede all others, as they will prove to be the most durable skirt ever yet offered, and as low as any made of the BEST tempered watch spring steel.

They are also still manufacturing, in large uantities, their celebrated Double Extension Patent Brustle Skirt, for which there has been such great demand.

all Billious Complaints.

It is a well known fact that the different fevers and billious complaints are caused by the poisonous miasma and exhalations from the surface of the earth, which are taken into the system by respiration. To neutralise this subtle poison and counteract its effect upon the system, is therefore what we have to aim at, and with this view the "French Tropical Fever and Ague Mixture" has been prepare!.

The high reputation which this medicine has gained within so short a time in the South and West where it has been introduced, is a sufficient proof for its superiority above all other compounds of the same kind.

As an antidote to malaria, this medicine sfands univalled, and as it is purely vegetable, it can be safely given to children and celicate patients, not only in case of fever, but in all cases where a good tonic is required.
